

Parenting an Anxious Kid

Does your child struggle with excessive worry that is difficult to control?

Is the anxiety starting to cause physical symptoms (stomachache, headache, difficulty concentrating, muscle tension, or sleep problems)?

Do typical parenting strategies not seem to help??

Many common parenting strategies backfire with anxious kids. Come learn research-supported techniques from child specialists who work with anxiety on a daily basis. Get support from other parents who understand and will encourage you on the journey. Each week includes time for questions and answers with Dr. Susan Myket.

*Studies show that working with parents is essential to improve a kid's behavior.
After all, you spend more time with your child than anyone else!*
